

Student Practice Application

This application form comprises one part of the Application for Special Admission under Rule 48 of the District of Columbia Court of Appeals. Once the Registrar announces your clinic assignment, complete this application form and the Court of Appeal's Rule 48 application form together (making sure to sign both where requested) and submit both forms and any supporting documentation to the Staff Assistant for Clinics in the 3rd Floor Clinic Suite. DO NOT submit anything directly to the Court of Appeals. Once the School has completed its character investigation, the Dean will sign the certification form and submit your completed application to the Court of Appeals. The Court of Appeals will mail student practice ID cards to the School, which will distribute them to students. Once approved, Special Admission under Rule 48 lasts for one year.

If obtaining documentation (to support a statement in response to any of these questions) will delay your submission by more than a week or two, you may submit your applications and statements with a brief explanation regarding the delay in obtaining documentation. With that submission, the School of Law can begin processing your application. You should, in that circumstance, continue seeking the documentation and submit it when you receive it. Having the documentation will be useful in that you will likely need to submit it when you apply to take the bar exam.

If you need more information or explanation regarding the questions below, please contact the Associate Dean for Experiential and Clinical Programs or, in the absence of that dean, the Chair of the Clinical Affairs Committee. DO NOT contact the Court of Appeals.
